Macmillan Hopeful On Skybolt Talks

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan expressed confidence Monday the American-British row over Skybolt will be settled during his talks in the Bahamas with President Kennedy.

Despite troubles besetting him at home and abroad, the 68-year-old British leader was in a jaunty mood as he boarded a plane for Nassau.

"I have no doubt," he told reporters, "that we shall find a way through our difficulties in the spirit of agreement which we have always had with the American People and administration."

He did not labor the point, but the implication was that he believed Kennedy would either agree to carry on with the Skybolt missile or provide Britain an alternative nuclear delivery system.

The same impression was left by Defense Minister Peter Thorneycroft in the House of Commons. But Skybolt is only part of a broader disagreement which divides the American and British governments on this subject.

Britain, which possesses her own warheads, had counted on Skybolt to give her a separate nuclear deterrent. The U.S. government firmly believes such separate deterrents, as possessed by Britain and France, add little to Western strength, threaten in time to bankrupt the countries which possess them, and open the door to the spread of nuclear weapons throughout the world.

Thorneycroft explained to Parliament that the United States has taken no final decision about Skybolt or about providing Britain an alternative nuclear delivery system. He reminded the House the United States and Britain are close allies and predicted the leaders of the two countries will find a solution to the problem.

Changes In Representatives' Staffs Due In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—When the new Congress meets Jan. 9 the office staffs of five Pennsylvania House members will be off the customary payroll.

The Pennsylvania congressional delegation hasn't had such a sweep in many years. This one is due chiefly to reapportionment, Pennsylvania having lost three House seats because its rate of population growth, as shown in the 1960 census, lagged behind that of certain other states. The other two staffs are losing out because Republican William Scranton was elected governor of Pennsylvania and Republican Carroll D. Keams was beaten in the May primary.

Some To Harrisburg
Scranton will take some of his staff to Harrisburg, but not his chief aide here, former Rep. Joseph Carrigg, who says he may resume law practice in Susquehanna.

Linda McCutchan, another Scranton employee, already has switched to the office of Pennsylvania's junior senator, Republican Hugh Scott.

Helen Carlson of Erie, Keams' top aide, may land a place with his successor, James D. Weaver. One of those whose districts were split up by reapportionment is Kathryn Granahan, now treasurer-designate of the United States. Mrs. Granahan will keep her foremost assistant, Mrs. Josephine O'Donahue McNabb, on the new job.

Roy Edwards, of Mahanoy City, will lose his job after 24 years with Rep. Ivor Fenton, who was defeated in November. The same goes for Dorothy Smith of Shamokin, also a veteran of 24 years with Fenton.

Eligible For Retirement
Thomas Sheridan of Curwensville, has been with Rep. James E. Van Zandt most of the time since 1939. He's eligible for retirement, but wants to go on working here. Another Van Zandt helper, Mrs. Eugenia Howard of DuBois, is retiring. Van Zandt, whose district was divided, was defeated in the senatorial race by the Democratic incumbent, Joseph S. Clark.

Trained workers such as congressmen employ seldom have much trouble getting a new job. The rub comes in finding one that pays well in money and prestige. A House member may pay his top secretary $15,000 or more a year. And the administrative assistant to a senator can be paid over $18,000 a year.

Unrest In Dakar Follows Uprising

DAKAR, Senegal (AP)—Troops loyal to President Leopold Senghor blocked an uprising by Premier Mamadou Dia Monday and trapped him and his collaborators in the government's administrative building.

The left-leaning premier had tried to take over supreme power to prevent his ouster by Parliament. He sent police to occupy the National Assembly building. Four of the assembly's 80 deputies were arrested.

However, 48 other deputies met at the home of Assembly President Lamine Gueve with special approval of the president, who acted as guardian of the constitution. The deputies voted to oust Dia. Seven members of Dia's Cabinet joined in the revolt against the premier.

Senghor, who has quarreled with Dia over the premier's leftist orientation in economic matters, invoked temporary emergency powers. He took control of all the armed forces and sent infantry to the administration building, where Dia and his supporters were meeting.

Senghor announced that Dia and his backers were surrounded on one floor of the building. He declared they would be prosecuted for abuse of authority.

The administrative area of the city was turned into an armed camp. But no bloodshed was reported and life in the rest of the city appeared to be about normal.

The action of Dia in ordering police to occupy the assembly building was the move that touched off the long-smoldering feud between the premier and Senghor over the country's economic program.

Before the showdown came Dia ordered police to surround the national radio station, imposed censorship on outgoing radio-telephone communications with Paris.

As night fell, troops loyal to Senghor guarded the president's mansion, the Radio Senegal building and the administrative building where most of the ministers were assembled.

Informed sources said the National Assembly would meet Tuesday to study proposals for revising the constitution. The revision probably will call for institution of a presidential system, on the American style, and doing away with the premier's office.

Constitutional amendments require a three-fifths majority in the assembly. The 48 members who voted to oust Dia government make up exactly three-fifths of the assembly.

Diplomatic sources in Paris said Senghor had called para-troops from outlying districts into Dakar—major air and sea terminal on the westernmost tip of Africa during World War II—and ordered them to clear the National Assembly.

Senghor and Dia—old friends and political allies—have shown conflicting political views since Senegal gained its independence peacefully from France in August 1960.

Ex-Owner Of Delaware House Dies

MRS. MARGARET DeVivo, who with her husband was proprietor of the Delaware House, Portland, for 30 years, died yesterday in the General Hospital of Monroe County. She was 75 years old and had been in the hospital the past two weeks.

Born in Brooklyn, N. Y., she was the daughter of the late James and Mary Collins Van Der Heyden. She had lived in Portland for the past 45 years. She and her husband, Ralph, were proprietors of the Delaware House for 30 years until his death in 1955. She was a member of St. Vincent De Paul Roman Catholic Church, Portland.

She is survived by one son, Emanuel, of Portland; two daughters, Genevieve, wife of William Stahle, of Somerville, N. J., and Frances, wife of Clyde Stopp, of Portland, and by one sister, Mrs. Mary Leonette, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 9 a. m. at the Reed funeral home, Johnsonville, with a requiem mass at 10 a. m. at St. Vincent's, Portland. Interment will be in the parish cemetery. Friends may pay their respects at the funeral home Thursday night after 7.

Fined Maximum Of $120,000:

Communist Party Found Guilty On Registration

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Communist party was convicted Monday of refusing to register as an agent of the Soviet Union and was dealt the maximum penalty—a $120,000 fine.

Attorneys for the Communist party said they would appeal the verdict immediately.

The jury of eight women and four men took 35 minutes to convict the party on all 12 counts of the indictment. And U.S. Dist. Court Judge Alexander Holtzoff quickly imposed the maximum $10,000 fine for each count.

The case is another round of a legal battle that has been going on for more than 12 years as the government seeks to force the Communist party to register under the 1950 Subversive Activities

Control Act, also known as the McCarran Act.

Defense Shattered
Defense attorneys had contended that the party failed to supply the information for fear it might incriminate its members, thus violating the Fifth Amendment provision against self-incrimination.

In discussing the Fifth Amendment plea with the jury, Judge Holtzoff said, "These are matters that do not concern you. These are irrelevant to the case."

He said only a living person, not an organization, can invoke the protection of the Fifth Amendment.

Eleven counts of the indictment deal with refusal of the party to register—provide its name and address on the proper form—before the Nov. 20, 1961 deadline. They cite the party for failing to register on each day past the deadline until the indictments were handed down in early December 1961.

The other indictment involves refusal to provide information about Communist party officers, members and finances.

Two-Point Defense

John J. Abt, attorney for the Communist party, based his defense primarily on two points:

First, he argued that the party had supplied any information required under the first 11 counts of the indictment in a letter Nov. 10, 1961, refusing to sign a "confession that it was the kind of an organization that the Subversive Activities Board said it was."

The board found the Communist party was a "Communist action organization" substantially controlled and dominated by the Soviet Union.

On the second point, Abt said the party was acting in an American tradition when it refused to inform on its members by listing them with the Justice Department.

F. Kirk Maddrix, Justice Department attorney, said although the letter cited by Abt supplied the requested information it said nothing at all about agreeing to register if the form was changed.

Would Not Register

"They said they were not going to register," Maddrix said.

He added that after a Supreme Court decision upholding the legality of the act June 5, 1961, the registration form was changed so that it would not require the signature of a party official.

He said this had been done to prevent possible self-incrimination.

Abt argued throughout the trial that if the party registered and listed its members it would lay the members open to possible prosecution under the Smith Act, which makes it illegal to belong to a group advocating forcible overthrow of the government.

The only government witness in the trial, reporter Will Lissner of the New York Times, testified that Gus Hall, the party's general secretary, told a news conference June 8, 1961, that the Communist party would in no respect comply with the law. Lissner quoted Hall as saying he would rather go to jail for life than be a stool pigeon and informer and supply the party's membership list to the Justice Department.

Expect Prisoners Free By Christmas

WASHINGTON (AP) — An attempt to win freedom by Christmas for the 1,200 Cuban invasion prisoners appeared under way Monday.

There were these developments:

1. A State Department spokesman, press officer Lincoln White, said he expects James B. Donovan, a New York lawyer who has been trying to obtain the prisoners' release, will return to Havana shortly to resume negotiations.

2. Donovan arrived in Miami, Fla., accompanied by two key figures in the negotiations, Alvaro Sanchez and Mrs. Berta Barreto, and reportedly conferred with officials of the Cuban Families Committee. This is a committee of relatives of the prisoners which has been soliciting funds for their release.

3. The American freighter African Pilot sailed from Baltimore for Port Everglades, Fla., where the American Red Cross officials said it will stand by to pick up food and medicines that may be delivered to Havana in exchange for the captives.

$62 Million Ransom
Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro has demanded $62 million ransom for the prisoners, who were captured in the disastrous Bay of Pigs invasion attempt of April 1961.

Cuba has been reported badly in need of medicines and some foods.

At the State Department White told newsmen the U.S. government is not taking part directly in Donovan's efforts, but he said various government agencies are providing "sympathetic" help.

Recalling President Kennedy's news conference expression of sympathy last week with efforts to free the prisoners, White said, "Federal agencies are facilitating or helping in any way they can because of the sympathetic feeling of this government in the release of these prisoners."

White said this help included validation of Donovan's passport for travel to Cuba, and preparations to extend immigration and naturalization aids to the prisoners once they reach this country.

Donovan, who has been working for the Cuban Families Committee since last August, has expressed hope of getting the captives out of prison by Christmas.

Sources in both Washington and Miami emphasized, however, that no final agreement has been reached with the Castro regime. And it was noted that on earlier occasions success had seemed near but was not achieved.

Officials at Port Everglades said they had been notified the African Pilot would arrive there Wednesday. Red Cross officials said the freighter was made available by the Farrell Lines to carry food and drugs to Cuba if the Havana government accepts this offer.

Informants said the supplies ready for shipment had a retail value of about $3 million. White made no mention of any federal financial help to supplement funds raised by the Cuban Families Committee, and whether the committee has raised enough to cover the cost was not known.

Relatives of the prisoners in Havana expressed confidence the captives would be freed before the end of the year. The mother of one told newsmen other mothers had been told by relatives in Miami the negotiations were on the verge of success.

"All I hear sounds good," this mother said.

Dominican Political Crisis Deepens As Charges Fly

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The Dominican church-political crisis hardened Monday.

Juan Bosch, 53, leader of the powerful Dominican Revolutionary party, withdrew from the seven-man race for the presidency in the election scheduled Thursday and called for the people to boycott the voting unless it is postponed for a month.

Combating the charge of a Spanish Jesuit priest that his party's leaders are Communists, Bosch declared in a nationwide radio talk that a month's postponement is needed to create conditions for "a free expression of the popular will." Most of the Republic's three-million people are Roman Catholics.

If the election is postponed, Bosch said, his party will compete.

First Free Election

A boycott promoted by the National Revolutionary party, leftist oriented, could lead members of some smaller organizations at least to stay away from the polls in this first free Dominican election in 37 years.

High government sources hinted however, the ruling State Council would decide to stage the voting as scheduled.

"It is too late, too difficult to change the date now," one said. Bosch said in an interview the Jesuit's charge, which he denied, left his party trapped in a way.

"If we go into the election and lose, it will be said we lost because we are Communists," the gray-haired politician said. "If we win we will be opposed on every reform bill because it will be said it is communistic."

Sought Statement

Bosch wanted, but failed to get, a statement from the Roman Catholic hierarchy disowning the charge. Instead, four bishops issued a declaration that the Church is observing "strictest neutrality."

Long identified with the democratic left school of thought, Bosch said neither he nor his party aides are Communists. He fought for 25 years in exile against the Trujillo dictatorship, finally toppled last year after the assassination of Gen. Rafael L. Trujillo.

Bosch and Dr. Viriato Fiallo, 67, have been considered the chief rivals for the presidency. Fiallo heads the Rightist National Civic Union.

The United States, which is helping the Dominicans to get back on their feet, was an interested spectator.

Covers First 23 Months In Office

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy told the nation Monday night it will be some time before the United States can come to any real understanding with Soviet Premier Khrushchev. But he added, "We are better off with the Khrushchev view than we are with the Chinese Communist view."

In an unprecedented filmed television-radio interview 23 months after taking office, Kennedy stressed international problems in ranging across the many items that have troubled him during his administration.

The President based his pessimistic view of the prospects of fruitful talks with Khrushchev on the fact that the Soviet Union, only two months ago, tried secretly to change the balance of power by shipping nuclear missiles into Cuba.

Kennedy said the Soviets were planning to announce the coup in November but were foiled by the determined stand taken by the United States in forcing removal of the offensive weapons.

Inspection Hope Lost

Discussing one of the still unresolved offshoots of October's Cuban crisis, Kennedy virtually abandoned hope that the Cuban missile and bomber bases would be opened to effective inspection. "A totalitarian system cannot accept the kind of inspection which really is desirable," he said, and added that to open Cuba to prying eyes would be a long step toward opening up the Soviet Union.

"They are not going to open it," he declared.

With on-site inspection a dim prospect, Kennedy said, "the camera, I think, is actually to be our best inspector."

'Account of Stewardship'

The broadcast, filmed Sunday in Kennedy's office, was billed as a personal account of his stewardship during nearly two years as president. And, while the three network newsmen who questioned him made repeated attempts to steer the conversation into retrospective channels, the President's answers were largely directed to the present campaign in Cuba.

Cuba was a central theme, with Kennedy making a number of statements which were new, coming from him.

For example: —"It would have been very unwise" had Kennedy told Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, at a meeting four days before the Cuban quarantine was announced, that the United States had evidence of the presence of Soviet missiles on the Caribbean island. Kennedy said Gromyko then could have announced their presence and seized the initiative at a time when U.S. policy was not yet fixed.

—Several members of Congress who met with the President a few hours before his quarantine speech "suggested a different alternative," Kennedy did not say what option the legislators favored but he expressed the conviction that, had they gone through the same policymaking steps as top administration officials, "they probably would have come out the same way that we did."

Right And Wrong

Kennedy said he believes the nation made the right choice in October and the wrong one in April 1961, when it helped support the abortive Bay of Pigs invasion. In canvassing American-Soviet relations, Kennedy said there is no reason why the two rich and energetic nations "should not be able to live in peace." However, he said, Communist expansionism—particularly as evidenced by the Chinese Communists—is the major stumbling block.

In response to a question, Kennedy said he does not buy the argument that he should protect Khrushchev because his successor would be worse.

"I don't know what his successor will be like," the President said.

At another point, he said: "We are better off with the Khrushchev view than we are with the Chinese Communist view, quite obviously. But Mr. Khrushchev does not wish us well, unfortunately."

Meredith Case

These were some of the other major topics touched on by Kennedy in the hour-long broadcast, edited from 90 minutes of filmed conversation.

—His action in sending troops to the University of Mississippi campus to help enforce the court-ordered admission of Negro James H. Meredith will "make it more difficult to pass an education bill" in 1963, Kennedy said. In what was his most extensive comment on the Mississippi situation since rioting there claimed two lives, Kennedy defended his dispatching of troops.

—"I have no regrets" about vigorous presidential efforts to cancel last April's effort by most major steel producers to raise prices. "The fact is," he said, "we were successful."

—In Kennedy's view, the House convening next month will be slightly more "against us" than it was before the November congressional elections.

—The President questioned the wisdom of creating a group of nuclear powers in Europe, particularly when the United States has a vast nuclear arsenal.

—Kennedy belittled a Khrushchev boast that Soviet antimissile missiles can "hit a fly in the sky." Kennedy said the Soviets might hit one but questioned whether they could hit "a thousand flies with decoys."

Stroud Union's Choruses Yule Program Thursday

ON Thursday night Dec. 20, at 9:15 p.m., the Stroud Union High School choruses will present their annual Christmas concert to the public. This late hour is traditional, and was set to accommodate the shoppers and store workers. The public is invited to see this year's presentation, "For Ever and Ever."

The title was chosen to describe the music all of which is, or is becoming, the type of music that will be heard "for ever and ever" at the Christmas season.

The mixed Chorus will open with the Fred Waring number, "Holiday." The combined efforts of the Girls Ensemble and the Mountaineers will be heard next in the music that has been among the more popular Christmas selections. They will sing "Winter Wonderland," "The Sleigh," "A Christmas Song," "All I Want for Christmas Is My Two Front Teeth," and "Rudolph, the Red Nosed Reindeer."

Soloists in the group include Sylvia Granacher, Linda Anthony, and Mary Jane Serfass. Don Whitaker on bass and Charley Cahn on drums add to the rhythm section.

To children, the reading of Clement Moore's "Twas the Night before Christmas" is a must. The Mountaineers will sing the Ken Darby setting of this famous poem. Bob McGraw will act as Santa Claus, Sylvia Granacher and Howard Allegar have solo parts, and Gretchen Wyckoff and June Kallag will read.

The reading of the Christmas story from the Gospel of St. Luke, and caroling are among the more serious experiences which will go on "for ever and ever." Keith Drury will read from scripture with the high school choir caroling in the background.

Contemporary music will be represented by portions from Benjamin Britten's "Ceremony of Carols", sung by the Girls Ensemble. Sylvia Granacher, and Diane Flager will solo in several of these new settings to ancient carols written in old English.

The final group of selections which will last or are lasting "for ever and ever" will be performed by the Mixed Chorus. From the perennial TV performance of the opera, "Amahl, and the Night Visitors", it will sing the "Shepherd's Chorus". Allen Mader, Glen Bisbing and Parke Kunkle sing the roles of the three kings.

The old 12th century hymn, "Beautiful Saviour" will be heard next, with Gail Godshall as contralto soloist. Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus", from the oratorio, "The Messiah" will finish the formal portion of the program, the final carol being "Silent Night". Leah Paul, and Phyllis Munson handle the accompanying duties.

The same program will be rendered at the East Stroudsburg State College, for the December meeting of the local college chapter of the Student Education Association, and on Friday, Dec. 21, at 12:30 p.m. for the Stroud Union high school student body.

Smiths Got Top Deer Kill Of '05

By Peggy Bancroft
Daily Record Correspondent

NEWFOUNDLAND — Four Smiths, looking much like the Martins waiting for the Coys, posed proudly with a record-breaking deer one day in 1905. And the deer — or was it a horse with horns? — makes the 150-pounders of 1962 look mighty puny!

Tunis, who was the father of the other Smiths in the photo, used a 45-90 model 86 Winchester to bring down his prize-winning buck. Augustus, who was a dentist in Sterling, used a similar weapon, and Emmett's gun was a 45-75. Merritt put his faith in a .50 Marlin.

"Ancestors"

The pictured men were "ancestors" of Miss Janice Smith, of Newfoundland, who brought to light the interesting photograph. Tunis was her great-grandfather; Augustus and Merritt were her great-uncles; and Emmett was her grandfather.

Janice, a student at East Stroudsburg State College, received the photograph from her father, Robert Smith, who had had the pictures reproduced in spite of the difficulty posed by the fact that the original photo was fastened securely to glass.

The camp in the background was unique. It featured architecture of the period of "Early Confusion," and was highlighted by the "stairs" by which the second story was reached — a rickety ladder leaning against the outside of the building. The businesslike saw leaning against the side of the camp testified to the method used by most hunters to keep warm in those pre-thermal underwear days! In fact, it was noted that you're warmed twice — once when sawing and once when burning the wood.

THE SMITHS — The Smith brothers brought down this trio of deer back in 1905. It was considered one of the top bags weight-wise of that period.

Buck Hill Opens New Ski Lift

BUCK Hill Falls this year opened a new Poma lift and new slopes for skiers. A warming hut and restaurant have been added to its facilities and the ice skating rink near the club house has been enlarged.

Many honeymoon lodges and winter resorts in the Poconos which do not have ski runs of their own run buses to Buck Hill Falls.

Among resorts having ski run areas for natural snow are High Point Inn, Pocono Manor and Sky Top. Some have tobogganing, but only Split Rock Lodge has an ice toboggan chute.

The winter sport season in the Poconos opened officially Saturday with the crowning of the Snow Queen at Split Rock Lodge, near Big Boulder.

White Silk For Blue Room

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House confirmed yesterday rumors that the oval walls of the famous Blue Room will be redecorated in white silk and the walls of the adjoining Green Room will be rehung with moss green silk.

For months, spokesmen for Jacqueline Kennedy have denied published reports that the white silk already had been ordered to replace the blue. Thursday it was confirmed and both the Blue and Green rooms will be closed during the holidays while this latest redecoration takes place.

Mrs. Kennedy's press secretary, Pamela Turnure, told members of two Washington newspaperwomen's clubs, invited in to see the Christmas decor, that they would be the last to view the Blue and Green rooms in their present form. The rooms' wall coverings and curtains have been unchanged since the Truman renovation.

The rooms were closed to the public Thursday and will be reopened about Jan. 20.

Nationalists Buy U.N. Bond

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Nationalist China bought a $500,000 U.N. bond Monday.

A statement from its U.N. mission said the purchase, made despite China's own pressing needs, reflects "confidence and support for the United Nations."

By Knowing When NOT to Drive

The Holiday Season is a time for parties, merriment, and, for many people, drinking. Driving an automobile after drinking is unlawful, dangerous and just plain foolish!

If you've been drinking, don't risk losing your license or your life by driving a car. It's safer, and wiser, to stay out of your car after partaking of alcoholic beverages!

If every motorist had observed this vital safety rule last year, 6,110 accidents, and 204 fatal accidents might have been prevented!

Request More State Subsidies

HARRISBURG (AP)—A request to increase state subsidies to school districts will be presented to the General Assembly next year by the Pennsylvania State Education Association, a spokesman said yesterday.

Harvey Gayman, executive secretary of the association, said the proposal would request the present subsidy base per teaching unit — currently $5,800 — be increased to average statewide costs or actual costs, whichever is less.

He estimated average costs to be $9,000.

The increased funds would be used, he said, to raise teachers' salaries.

The plan, adopted by the organization's Legislative Committee, would increase minimum teachers' salaries from $3,600 to $4,500 per year and step up the scale of automatic pay increases.

Gayman estimated the proposal would cost the state about $100 million more a year and acknowledged the plan would mean a proportionate rise in local school taxes.

The PSEA claims a membership of 80,000 teachers and administrators in the state.

Monroe Jury Dismissed After Failing To Agree

A MONROE County jury, which debated for five and one-half hours, was unable to agree Saturday in the case of Paul Hrywnak, Moscow, RD 3, charged with drunken driving.

Judge Fred W. Davis dismissed the jurors after they reported to him they were hopelessly deadlocked. There was no immediate indication whether or not Hrywnak will be tried again.

J. Joseph McCluskey was attorney for Hrywnak, while Dist. Atty. James R. Marsh represented the Commonwealth.

Found Guilty

Another jury found Mrs. Dora Johnson, 31, of 309 Main St., Stroudsburg, guilty on a charge of assault and battery.

Judge Davis placed her on probation for 18 months and ordered her to pay a fine of $100 and costs. She was represented by Harry Lee as court-appointed attorney.

Hilton Hotels To Buy Stock

NEW YORK (AP)—Hilton Hotels Corp. has offered to buy up 300,000 of its outstanding common shares, or nearly 8 per cent, at between $28.12 and $29.50 a share.

The lower anchors of the price range represented last Friday's close on the New York Stock Exchange. The exact tendering price would be specified by shareholders. The offer expires Jan. 17.

The Hard Reality

A little known aspect of the Cuban crisis was the alert of United States railroads. In any emergency the government must look to the railroads to do the major hauling job. Had the Cuban crisis gone from bad to worse—instead of being at least temporarily alleviated—the demands imposed upon the railroads would have been enormous.

This has caused president Loomis of the Association of American Railroads to issue a timely warning. He says: "Railroadmen are now meeting every transport demand the military makes on us—and we'll continue to do so. But we cannot afford to wink at reality."

The reality of which he speaks is hard and urgent. This year railroad capital expenditures will come to something like $840 million, a 30 per cent gain over last year. But, big as that expenditure may seem, it simply isn't big enough to meet this nation's needs. In Mr. Loomis' view, government action is necessary to make it possible to boost modernization outlays to $1500 million a year. Railroad earnings, measured as a return on investment, are now running at about 2 per cent a year, barely one-third of the figure generally considered proper and necessary for regulated industry. No poverty stricken industry can do a maximum job of improvement and expansion.

What is the solution? As a general answer, in Mr. Loomis' words, it is "for Congress to act next January on President Kennedy's transportation recommendations." The substance of these recommendations is that obsolete laws and regulatory policies be changed and that the railroads, along with all the other transportation agencies, should be given greater freedom to compete and to use their inherent advantages to obtain traffic.

The world moves at a terrifyingly fast speed these days. Time is running out for correction of the serious and needless deficiencies in this nation's transportation position as it affects both our defense and our civilian life.

Penn State Pay Scale

"A society that pays its ballad singers and its professional baseball players many times more than it pays its most distinguished scientists and scholars is in no position to criticize its colleges and universities," Dr. Eric A. Walker, president of Pennsylvania State University, said last year.

A university is only as good as its professors, and money has a lot to do with the calibre of professors a college is able to attract. Last year the American Association of University Professors, with its rather tongue-in-cheek system of grading universities on their pay scales, gave Penn State a "D".

In college parlance, a "D" is passing, but barely.

Penn State is trying to bring up its pay scale, and in a report last week the university said that great gains have been made recently.

Since 1959 the State University has been able to boost salaries of instructors, assistant professors, associate professors and full professors by 21 to 24 per cent. In so doing, Penn State has topped the average of 10 other land grant colleges in all categories but full professor where the 10 pay an average of $14,202 a year while Penn State pays $13,909.

The new gains might be worth a "C" from the AAUP.

The gains, however, were made at the expense of the wrong people, the students. The Legislature consistently has failed to meet Penn State's needs.

The new money for salaries has come from the $1 million tuition increase in September, 1961, that raised tuition for a student from $160 to $175 a term. Other money was saved by an increase in the student-teacher ratio, an increase that might not always be beneficial to students.

A fourth source of new funds for salaries came from research grants, and there can be no argument here.

No one can doubt that good teachers, like good doctors or lawyers, cost money. Even at its new salary range—which goes from an average of $7,419 for instructors to $13,909 for full professors—Penn State probably is losing many good men who go elsewhere to teach.

The competition among schools and states for capable college teachers will grow even sharper in the next few years because enrollments are due to go up so much. Pennsylvania would be wise to give its State University the support it needs this year to become more competitive for teachers.

Women In 'Strike For Peace'

Washington—Mrs. Dagmar Wilson, 46, is a charming, soft-spoken Washington housewife, passionately interested in what she calls the "fight for peace."

She told a subcommittee of the House Un-American Activities Committee last week that it mattered not to her that hard-core Communists had infiltrated her "movement." Women International Strike for Peace (WISP), a worldwide organization she formed, welcomes those of all political ideologies, Communism and fascism included, she said.

There are no known Nazis who have assumed leadership positions within WISP. Here are some of the leader in the Metropolitan area:

1. Blanche Posner, a "more than 21" year-old bleached blond, who is chairman pro-tem of the WISP metropolitan New York office. Mrs. Posner invoked the Fifth Amendment 41 times on the witness stand, and refused to tell whether or not she is a Communist.

2. Rose Clinton, dark-haired and nattily dressed, who also found refuge behind the Fifth Amendment. Mrs. Clinton is secretary and membership chairman of the West Side Peace Committee in New York.
3. Iris Freed, a sharp-tongued brunette of Larchmont, N. Y. She is a leader in the Westchester County WISP and is reported to have held Communist Party meetings in her home in 1964. She refused to deny that allegation and clammed up when asked if she had been a delegate to a Communist Party convention in 1967.

4. Anna MacKenzie, a tearful Vassar graduate who maintained that committee members were throwing stones, not questions, at her. Mrs. MacKenzie, active in the Connecticut WISP, refused to cite the Fifth Amendment in spurning committee questions. Instead she took the First ("free speech") Amendment, which might well end in her conviction for contempt of Congress.
5. Elizabeth Moos, a spry, 72-year-old veteran of Communist movements, mother-in-law of the late William Remington, Soviet spy. Identified as a Communist, Mrs. Moos took the Fifth Amendment.
6. Selma Rein, an identified Communist, who helps run WISP in the nation's capital. Mrs. Rein, long a wheelhorse in local fronts, took the Fifth Amendment in Congressional testimony several years ago.
7. John W. Darr, an articulate young New Yorker, who heads up the Greenwich Village Peace Center. He refused to answer all questions on the grounds of "conscience." Among those questions:

'... And America Is Plagued By Foot-In-Mouth Disease!'

The Pennsylvania Story

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — A tough and touchy road unquestionably lies ahead for the incoming Republican Scranton Administration — a road that could well lead to disaster on the now razor-sharp legislative shoals.

The salient fact is that the new administration will have barely a scrape-by stroke of control in either the House of Representatives or Senate — which while "control" per se, in both houses on paper at least is assured, it is a far different story when it comes down to the more practical workhorse production factor.

Before the 1963 legislative show is over and done and wrapped up finally for another year, Pennsylvanians must certainly witness a struggle that could have most far-reaching effects and consequences.

For example, in the Senate where 26 votes are required for control of that chamber, Scranton Administration Republicans will have precisely that number when the session gets under way in January.

(Initially the so-called Scranton bloc enjoyed a one-plus edge in the Senate but this was cut to exactly 26 with the death last week of Senator Samuel B. Wolfe.)

Thus — a defection one way or the other by just one member of the Senate GOP bloc will be all that is needed to negate an administration move, or for that matter to just kill administration legislation!

Or — illness or an inadvertent absence of only one GOP bloc member, at a critical stage, could knock the underpinnings from any phase or facet of a Scranton Administration program.

Thus, while the new Scranton Administration, to all intents and purposes will indeed have "control" in the upper chamber — but without a single vote to spare — the actual working effect could be negated literally at the drop of a hat.

However there is this much that should be noted on the other side of the ledger: Republican blocs in the Senate over the years have been something more than notorious for discipline — a factor which they will have to have working in their behalf during 1963 as never before.

(In other words, once a majority of the GOP bloc decides to move for or against a major piece of legislation, it can almost invariably be counted upon to stand solid on this course, regardless of how individual members of the bloc may feel.)

Perhaps the biggest question for the upcoming year is whether this blind solidarity can or will again be maintained. If it can't, the Scranton Administration program unquestionably will be wrecked on the jagged legislative shoals.

The notorious Republican discipline as such of yesterday, while a continuing potent force, actually is not the great potent weapon of yore. New blooded members are filtering into the GOP Senate bloc who have a streak of independence. It has been maturing steadily in recent years.

The year 1963 could well be the year of the break-through — when it would take only one to completely upset the Scranton Administration apocalyptic.

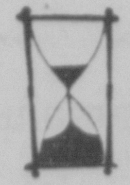

Is it likely to happen? It is indeed — and there could be no more crucial year than 1963!

It's just as touchy in the House of Representatives where Administration Republicans will have (again on paper) a GOP bloc membership of 108, with 106 needed for control and passage of legislation. However in the House, with one Republican (Representative Widenor, Berks) already on the hospital list, the practical size of the bloc narrows down to only 107!

Significantly, the House GOP bloc historically has been less disciplined and more frisked with independency than the Senate bloc — which again illustrates the "problem" faced by the Scranton Administration even in the lower chamber.

The legislative shoals are sharp — and waiting.

Off The Record

By Bob Clark

The approaching holiday is bringing out the Christmas shoppers. No matter where you go in the county you run into someone or ones you haven't seen in a spell.

Our trek through the stores and up and down the Main Streets brought us face to face with these individuals:

Connie Beers Pentz, wife of the Stroudsburg attorney, was so loaded down with packages that you would think she was Mrs. Santa Claus;

Joe Murphy, the State Police man who resides in East Stroudsburg, was picking out his tree, claiming it was bigger than the one at Rockefeller Center;

Mrs. Robert Blaser, wife of the Stroudsburg merchant, hurrying with her children for a date with Santa Claus;

Mrs. Estelle Fleming, executive director of the Monroe County Tuberculosis Society, working harder than ever to put over the top the drive which so does so much for so many in the nation;

John Wellington, the Bell executive, making the rounds to make sure everyone has one of those Prince or Princess phones dangling somewhere in the household;

Butch Eggert, his wife and grandson, folks who live out S beyond Shawnee, taking in the sights in the Twin Boroughs and purchasing enough food to last them for the winter;

Dick Melick, Stroudsburg, strolling the main street with a gait better than Dasher and Prancer;

Charley Dellaria, the publicity man for so many good organizations, finding the time to get in his Yule shopping despite constant plugging of Christmas events.

And Mary Jane Snyder, wife of Stroud Union's Numa, battling the mobs in the stores with the effervescent personality of the Most Happy Fella.

DEAR MAD: I think they are spending too much on a single gift, but if they have earned the money, it's their privilege.

When we got home (about midnight) it was pitch dark in the house and the girl and her visitor appeared very rumpled and disarranged. My husband said that we should not permit this girl to have company again while she sits for us. How can I refuse her if she asks again, without implying that I don't trust her?

Even when I explain that I have just given the place a thorough cleaning, she goes right ahead and pulls the house apart, moves the furniture and crawls under the beds looking for dirt. When I invite her for dinner she comes hours early and takes over the kitchen. I have had 14 years of homemaking experience and feel that I do a pretty good job. How can I let her know I do not need her help?

Kennedy To Ask Boost In Pay For Cabinet

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington, December 18 — President Kennedy has a glittering surprise Christmas present for his Cabinet members, but it won't be ready to open until after New Year.

He is preparing a special message to the new Congress recommending that salaries be increased from $25,000 to between $30,000 and $35,000.

The exact amount of this pay boost will be decided when the President discusses the legislation with his congressional leaders.

His strategy is to sweeten the pay plan by suggesting that members of Congress follow the administration's lead and hike their own salaries. At present, Senate and House members receive $22,500 a year.

To his message to the legislators, the President will urge that pay increases be needed to bring executive and legislative salaries in line with those now being received by officials in private industry.

To dramatize this point, the President will show how the Secretaries of Defense, State, Agriculture, and Interior are handling expenditures, and have responsibilities far in excess of officials of large corporations who receive five times their salaries.

While the salary boost for Cabinet members is the core of the new pay proposal, it is loaded with some other startling recommendations.

One of these calls for the setting up of an "elite" group of super-grade positions. These posts will carry salaries ranging from $20,000 to $25,000 — or up to $5,000 more than the $20,000 top now paid officials with the high-end G-13 rating.

If Congress approves, the President wants to establish more than 300 of these "elite" positions. At least a dozen of the plush-paying jobs will be assigned to the White House; another five would go to the Peace Corps; and five to the proposed Domestic Peace Corps.

Still to be decided is whether the catch-all pay bill should be widened to include pay increases for U. S. ambassadors and federal judges.

Selling The Plan — President Kennedy and his budget advisers are counting on strong backing from the Senate Post Office & Civil Service Committee to win congressional approval or their pay boosting proposal.

This committee, in a report hiked postal employees' pay this year, inserted a little-publicized recommendation covering "consideration of salary increases or top officials covered by all the various systems, including the executive and legislative branches of government."

The President plans to stress the committee's recommendation in the message he sends to Congress. Also, he is counting on a favorable climate in Congress inasmuch as 1963 is not an election year. It is usually in the off-years that Congress increases its own pay.

Moscow Calling — Premier Khrushchev isn't waiting for President Kennedy to agree to the establishment of direct communication between the Kremlin and the White House. He has gone ahead and set one up between Moscow and Havana.

The National Security Agency is now quietly intercepting direct radio broadcasts from the Kremlin's radio control center outside Moscow to a Soviet military command post near Havana.

In monitoring these broadcasts, the NSC reports the messages are being sent in code and transmitted around the clock.

A number of the most recent messages have gone from Khrushchev to air force General Dankelevich, in command of all Soviet forces on the island. One of these exchanges indicates that General Dankelevich, not Premier Fidel Castro, is really ruling Cuba.

The U. S. proposed the installation of a direct telephone line between President Kennedy and Khrushchev as part of surveillance system or averting war by miscalculation or accident.

The Moscow-Havana line is not being used for that peaceful purpose.

On The Inside — The Senate Judiciary Committee is organizing its own Cuban underground. A half dozen anti-Castro Cuban refugees are on the committee's payroll supplying inside information to the senators. The group is operating out of Miami and furnishing data on the Soviet troops and arms still in Cuba. The senators consider the refugees' information as reliable as that of intelligence agencies.

Fidel Castro is trying to wangle an invitation to Brazil ahead of President Kennedy. U. S. officials in Brazil report Castro has written left-leaning President Goulart suggesting that he be invited there in January. Goulart doesn't want Castro on the scene until Brazil is able to obtain one billion dollars in new economic aid from the U. S. . . . Aides report that it was Postmaster General Day's personal decision to omit a religious theme from this year's Christmas stamp. The Reason? He didn't want to offend non-Christian groups.

DEAR CORNER: Whether she thinks you "trust" her is not as important as making sure that nothing regrettable happens in your home.

DEAR ABBY: I used to be a very heavy drinker. I had to have a shot of whiskey first thing in the morning so you know I was not exactly a "social drinker." I met a woman who said she would marry me if I quit drinking. I joined A.A. and have not had a drop of whiskey since New Year's, 1961. Now this woman says she changed her mind and doesn't love me enough to marry me. I am ready to start drinking again. Do you think she has been fair to me and how can I get her to keep her promise?

SOBER BUT WEAKENING

DEAR SOBER: Sobriety is your life-saver and this woman provided it. You owe her a lot, so thank her and say good-bye. Perhaps this is a test. If you stay sober through this crisis, she might marry you after all.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

DEAR ABBY: A 16-year-old neighbor girl babysat for us last Saturday night. She asked me beforehand if her boy friend could keep her company while she sat, and I didn't see any reason why he shouldn't. When we got home (about midnight) it was pitch dark in the house and the girl and her visitor appeared very rumpled and disarranged. My husband said that we should not permit this girl to have company again while she sits for us. How can I refuse her if she asks again, without implying that I don't trust her?

DEAR ABBY: I have a different kind of mother-in-law problem. She isn't in my home five minutes when she drags out my vacuum sweeper, mop and dust cloth. Even when I explain that I have just given the place a thorough cleaning, she goes right ahead and pulls the house apart, moves the furniture and crawls under the beds looking for dirt. When I invite her for dinner she comes hours early and takes over the kitchen. I have had 14 years of homemaking experience and feel that I do a pretty good job. How can I let her know I do not need her help?

Herman Paul, 73, Stroudsburg

HERMAN L. Paul, 73, of 237 Houston Ave., Stroudsburg, died at his home at 3:45 a.m. yesterday. He had been in failing health for eight years.

He was born at Appenzell, the son of Clyde and Mary Idella Anglemire Paul, and had lived there until moving to Stroudsburg five years ago.

He was a wholesale dealer in Christmas trees in the area for 40 years, was a farmer and most recently was employed by the National Drug Co., Swiftwater.

He was a member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Appenzell; its Adult Sunday School Class, was church treasurer and a former member of the church council. He also belonged to J. Simpson Africa Lodge, F. and A.M., East Stroudsburg, Lehigh Consistory and the Tall Cedars of Lebanon, Easton.

Surviving are his wife, Abbie Everett Paul; two sons, Avon, Mechanicsburg, and LeRoy, Appenzell; one daughter, Miss Marie Paul, Stroudsburg; two sisters, Mrs. Etta Jester, Columbus, Ohio, and Mrs. James Wallingford, Appenzell, and five grandchildren.

Private funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Daniel G. Warner Funeral Home. Rev. Charles Adams will officiate and burial will be in Mt. Calvary Cemetery, Appenzell.

There will be no viewing.

Depot Employee Killed By Car

ROMAN Lopatto of 130 Lackawanna Avenue, Swoyersville, a n employee at the Tobyhanna Depot, died about 4 a.m. Saturday in Good Samaritan Hospital, Lexington, Ky. He was struck by an automobile while crossing Circle Road between 2:30 and 3 a.m. Police said the driver of the car, Kenneth R. Allison, 30, Lexington, told them he swerved to avoid another car. Dr. Walters, the coroner of Lafayette County, Ky., is investigating.

Mr. Lopatto, an electronics equipment repairman at Tobyhanna, where he was employed since June, 1955, was attending a six-week course at the Army Radar School, Lexington. He had been there about two weeks.

Mr. Lopatto was a member of St. Mary's Church at Swoyersville; Andrew Lawrence Post 644, American Legion, where he served as director of its Home Association; Paradise Social Club, Swoyersville, and Maltby Hose Company.

Mr. Lopatto was born August 9, 1924, a son of the late Anthony and Pauline Federowicz Lopatto.

Surviving are his wife, the former Irene Concert, at home; a son, John Kasian, with the U. S. Navy at Norfolk, Va.; brothers, Michael, Swoyersville, and John, Wyoming; sisters, Mrs. Francis Gerchman, Wilkes-Barre; Mrs. Peter Slempa, Mrs. Andrew Bitto and Mrs. Michael Sinal, all of Swoyersville; Mrs. Dominick Concert and Mrs. Walter Sumpolec, both of Newark, N. Y. Also surviving are halfbrothers, John Huban, Cornelius Huban, Texas; Harold Huban, Parsons, half-sisters, Mrs. Stanley Stachewicz, Philadelphia; Mrs. Albert Levy, Wilkes-Barre, and Mrs. Daniel McGurk, Forty Fort.

Funeral will be held Wednesday at 8:30 a.m. from the funeral home, 1442 Wyoming Avenue, Forty Fort. Requiem Mass will be read at 9 in St. Mary's Church, Swoyersville. Interment in the parish cemetery. Friends may call today, 2 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m.

Wind Gap Man Freed Under Bail

WIND GAP — Albion Yesionis, 47, of 508 Liberty St., Wind Gap, was released under $300 bail on charges of drunken driving after being arraigned before Justice of the Peace Paul Messenger, Bushkill Township.

Yesionis was arrested at his home Sunday on a warrant issued by Justice of the Peace R. S. Daniels, Wind Gap. A hearing will be held later before Daniels.

The complaint was filed by Thomas Nottle, Bushkill Township police chief. Nottle accompanied by Robert Ambrose, Wind Gap police, and Harvey Miller, Moore Township police chief, picked up Yesionis at his home.

The charged stemmed from an accident at Jacobsburg in Bushkill Township on Dec. 7.

Police said Yesionis' car left the highway and struck a bank, leaving the rear of the car on the road. Yesionis, while backing the car, struck a Bushkill Township school bus driven by Russell VanGordon, 46, of Nazareth, RD 2. No one was injured. Police said VanGordon was proceeding cautiously around the stalled car. Damage was estimated at $150.

Turnout Light For Doe Hunt

GAME Protectors John Spencer and John Doebeling said last night that the number of hunters in the woods yesterday during the one-day antlerless deer season was light.

Both men agreed that there were about 450 antlerless deer killed in the county, but that was only an estimate. They will not know how many have been killed until hunters make their reports and send them to Harrisburg.

Reported kills to The Daily Record were:

John Field, 15, of Bartonsville, killed his deer after coming home from school. He was hunting in the Bartonsville area.

Carol Saunders, 15, of Stroudsburg, killed a 125-pound doe about 4 p.m. while hunting in the Blue Mountain Camp area.

Jeffrey Martinell, 16, of Scotrun, killed an albino while hunting in the Scotrun area. His kill was a 125-pound button buck.

Heather Valence, 12, shot and killed her first deer yesterday while hunting in the Promised Land area.

Steven L. Snyder, East Stroudsburg, RD 3, killed a doe yesterday about 2 p.m. while hunting in the Cherry Lane section of Monroe County. Hog dressed it tipped the scale at 100 pounds.

Richard Crawford, East Stroudsburg, RD 3, killed a doe at 9 a.m. while hunting in the Cherry Lane section. His tipped the scale at 97 pounds, hog dressed.

$100 Reward For Info On Killing Of Pet Deer

PARKER RIDAY, last night announced to The Daily Record that he would pay $100 reward to the person giving information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who killed his pet deer.

Riday is the owner and operator of Riday's Taxidermist Shop on Route 611, just north of Stroudsburg. Someone shot or stabbed his pet deer and carried off the dead animal.

The event occurred early Sunday morning after the person or persons, cut a hole, three-foot square, in the eight foot fence surrounding the deer pen.

Anyone with information is requested to call Riday at 421-1280.

Missing Man Turns Up

STROUD Township's fire siren sounded shortly after 6 p.m. yesterday when a man was reported missing in the Analomink section of the township.

The alert was cancelled a few minutes later when the man wandered into Schimmel's Store. Further details were unavailable last night.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Awestruck as I am by modern mechanized toys, there are certain treasures of my own childhood I haven't noticed yet: a hoop, probably from an old barrel, and a peeled hoop stick tied with a red bow; a jump rope with red handles, although I did see one with an elaborate swivel arrangement; and a kaleidoscope — although they probably have one that revolves automatically.

Part of the charm of the kaleidoscope was that you could pick your own speed and if you were very careful and didn't jiggle it you could admire a particularly beautiful pattern of colored glass to your hearts' content. Over the weekend, however, somebody was turning the kaleidoscope of the biggest party weekend except New Year's Eve far too fast, and all I can capture for you are isolated scenes — illuminated for just an instant:

Garnet Rumsey, receiving her guests in a floor-length gown of pink brocade that made the simple ceremony seem special, like stepping into a court scene.

The all-red Christmas decorations in the parlors open house, which glowed from its hilltop like a ruby in the snow. Ever the perfect hosts, Jack and Madelyn, had been thoughtful enough to provide with the sweet-and-sour spare ribs, a platter of those dry-wash squares because like buttered corn on the cob, spare ribs must be eaten in the hand. The only problem developed when guests, fooled by the resemblance of the squares to sliced cheese, started to put them between small slices of bread, while those who had been fooled earlier stood by to watch their reactions.

Wonder what the reactions would have been if the guests had arrived at the Wyckoff's dinner party to discover nobody had put the roasts of beef in the oven? It almost happened. Betty and Bill were just leaving the house, each thinking the other had put in the roasts, when Betty asked what temperature the oven had been set. Whatever they did set them at when they went back in was perfect.

In fact, everything was perfect and if I have to put up the Christmas wreaths at unwashed windows, and somebody gets two balls of yarn and a promise instead of socks, I'm ready for Christmas — at least in spirit.

Warm Moravian Customs Described For DAR

The Moravians can contribute to Christmas more than their putzes, love feasts, beeswax candles and trombone choirs, suggested Rev. Joseph N. Carr, Jr., in his talk on "Our Friends, the Moravians" at the meeting of the Jacob Stroud Chapter of the American Revolutionaries yesterday at the Stroud Community House.

Their personal integrity, their energy, their willingness to acknowledge the contributions of other denominations, and the warmth of their relationships with each other could provide an example to the world, he said. Pastor of the Zion United Church of Christ in Stroudsburg, Rev. Carr spoke from his own experience as a student among the Moravians as a living and as a minister in Bethlehem.

Specifically he cited their "Brotherly Agreement"—not a creed or a doctrine but merely a pattern for living together which they renew each year.

Of particular interest at this season were his account of their Christmas customs. The elaborate Putz which they build in their homes, holding open house for all to see, which stem from the Middle Ages when those who could not read learned the Christmas stories from the miniature scenes of the Putz.

Their Christmas Eve love feast with beeswax candles is more than "a hymn sung with coffee and buns," he said, pointing to its early origin and the way it draws its families together. He also described the brass choir of the early Easter services, and the choirs into which the congregation is divided according to age and sex.

In outlining its history from the 15th century when it was a forerunner of the Protestant Reformation, he pointed out that the Moravians came to this country not for refuge but to minister to the heathen. They have also been leaders in the Ecumenical Movement—a gathering together of all believers; pioneers in education, teaching the student as well as the subject; in preserving historical records; in promoting music such as the Bach Festival.

He was introduced by Mrs. Grace Sporer. Preceding his talk, the Girls Ensemble of Stroud Union High School sang five songs, "A Star Was Born," "Christmas Song," "Night of Wonder" with Sylvia Granacher and Dawn Frailley as soloists; "Babalu" and "The Sleigh." Mary Jane Serfass introduced the numbers in the absence of the director, Numa Snyder, who is ill. She invited members to attend the

Smith-Storm Wedding Held In Paradise Valley Church

The Evangelical United Brethren Church, Paradise Valley, was the setting for the early evening wedding on December 5 of Miss Marjorie Elaine Storm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Storm, Swiftwater, to Pvt. Clark Dennis Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Jones, Cresco.

The double ring ceremony, performed by Rev. Karl Keller, was highlighted by soft background music played by the organist, Mrs. Orpha Besecker. The bride, escorted by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace over a silk tulle underskirt. The fitted bodice featured a scoop neckline and long sleeves tapering to points at the wrist. Her princess line skirt terminated in a chapel train. A double tier crown of iridescent and seed pearls held the cascading fingertip veil of French silk illusion.

Ivy and Stephanotis fell from her white Bible, a gift from her bridesmaid, centered with a white rose corsage. The bride wore a pearl necklace, a gift from the groom.

Miss Joyce Stick, maid of honor, wore a taffeta street-length

Miss Long Is Bride Of Bill Hagerty

William Hagerty, the Weatherman to many local residents, was married on Saturday to Miss Irene Elizabeth Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Long of 906 Sonnan Ave., Portage, Pa.

Hagerty is the son of Mrs. Blake Hagerty of 720 Scott St., Stroudsburg.

They were married in the United Church of Christ, Kunkletown, by Rev. Adan Bohner with Mr. and Mrs. James Hagerty, of Stroudsburg, as their attendants. James Hagerty is William Hagerty's brother.

After a brief wedding trip, they are now at home at an apartment, 707 Scott St., Stroudsburg. The bride is a graduate of Portage Joint High School and has been a secretary with Portage Cleaners.

Mr. Hagerty, a graduate of Stroudsburg High School, is employed at Line Material Co. The study of weather has been his avocation and he is local weather observer for the Weather Bureau.

Firemen And Young Helpers Guests Of Aux.

Saylorsburg — The Ladies Aux. of the Saylorsburg Fire Co. will hold a meeting and Christmas party on Thursday night, Dec. 20 at 6:30 p.m.

They will have as their guests the firemen and the boys and girls who helped in any way at the penny suppers. There will be a 50-cent gift exchange.

Election of officers will mark the brief business meeting. A large turnout is expected.

Faithful Workers Party Tonight At Hobbs Home

The Faithful Workers Class of Hamilton Union Church will meet tonight at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hobbs, Sciota.

This will be the Christmas party with an exchange of gifts and a program following the business meeting when officers will be elected. The meeting will begin promptly at 7:30 p.m., a change of time.

Present officers are Mrs. Robert Rinker, secretary; Mrs. Charles Haney, treasurer and Mrs. Charles Hobbs, president.

War I Aux. Has A Party

At the close of the meeting of World War I Aux. at the Legion Home, a Christmas party was held when members exchanged gifts.

They also signed a Christmas card to be sent to the Geigers who are living in Florida and one to Louis Miller who is a patient in Jefferson Hospital, Philadelphia.

Georgia Albertson and her committee served refreshments. At the next meeting, nomination of officers will be held.

Original Marionette Show Wins Plaudits Of 500 Kids

The premiere of a local dramatic production may by Christmas Eve have been performed for more people than some Broadway shows which have opened and closed the same night. It is estimated that the original Christmas Marionette Show, written and directed by Beverly Shinn, will have been shown to more than 500 children.

Actually, the performance is more in the tradition of the English Christmas Pantomimes than of a Broadway show. It features 19 stringed marionettes and six hand puppets in five vaudeville acts and a four-scene original Christmas Fantasy playlet.

The show will be presented this morning at 9 a.m. to 240 children of the first three grades of the Morey School and again on Thursday night at 7 in the Armory in East Stroudsburg for the 230 children expected to attend the Salvation Army's Children's Christmas party.

The performance had its trial run last Sunday afternoon when it was presented before an enthusiastic audience of 90 at the Christ Episcopal Church School Christmas party. Its critics, junior-grade, termed it "Bouncy" . . . "Jolly" . . . and "More fun than TV".

The vaudeville acts feature a Happy Horse and Clown acrobatic act; a song and dance act of "Santa Claus Is Comin' To Town"; Spookie Skeleton with lose bones; a mystery intrigue with Dragon and Rabbit; and Mickey and Minnie Mouse with Donald Duck.

The original play "The Toys That Came to Life" is a fantasy in which a little girl dreams that she will get well if her Christmas toys were to come to life. Her brother finds his way through the snow to carry the message to Santa Claus at his North Pole workshop. Santa Claus is willing but worried about how to work the miracle.

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

This is my "castoff" day . . . meaning that my cast is finally off after three and a half weeks that seemed like three and a half years. I still have two fingers that aren't functioning very well, but the one is gradually hitting typewriter keys (with a great deal of delicacy . . . but at least it's "in their punching") and, as Dr. Hunsicker tells me, everything will be fine in time.

Speaking of broken bones, I would like to mention that during my recent trips to our hospital clinic I witnessed at least one major miracle, and perhaps many others of which I had no knowledge. It was almost unbelievable when I saw, on my earliest visit, a young woman who had been completely paralyzed after a swimming accident at Stokes Mill, walking down the hall toward me. During her months of hospitalization she had endured endless discomforts, but the perseverance of the doctors and nurses, her own grit and determination, and the prayers of all who knew about her, had worked a blessing which everyone feels is amazing. How wonderful that this should be so! It's just another facet of "the magic of Christmas" in the Stroudsburgs this year.

We at Wyckoff's are using "the magic of Christmas" as a slogan this December, and are adapting it to the many marvelous gift suggestions offered by every department of the Wyckoff-Sears store. It occurs to me now that many of the gifts being purchased will naturally go to shut-ins . . . persons ill at home or in the hospital. Should there be an invalid on your gift list, the ideas are numerous. The most obvious, of course, is toiletries from our Wyckoff Cosmetic department. I have observed that some hospitals no longer use the good old-fashioned alcohol rub to refresh a patient, but prefer a cologne or toilet water. Jean Nate "pour le bain" is a great favorite for this, and it is available in several sizes of which the largest is, naturally, the most practical and economical. Other fragrances are equally pleasant, of course, and we have a tremendous selection at Wyckoff's—I mention Jean Nate simply because it is so very popular because of its clean, lemony freshness.

Talcum powder is another comforting accessory for the invalid, and nurses have told me they are most pleased with those that come in a shaker type container as they are somewhat less messy to use than those involving big, fluffy puffs. Patients also need deodorants to counteract the odors of illness—even some hard candies, such as our individually wrapped, sterile Keillers, to take the taste of drugs and medicines away.

"Stocking Stuffers" for invalids, from our Cosmetic department, might include eyebrow tweezers, emery boards, nail polish, a jar of cold cream (after surgery or a long illness one's skin often feels very dehydrated and taut), hand lotion, manicure scissors, a pretty comb and brush, a hand mirror (we have lovely comb, brush and mirrors for as little as six dollars) tooth brush and paste. A nice cosmetic bag, waterproof and fitted, to keep everything in is another gift possibility. Why all the beauty aids? Because a woman, recovering from illness, has more time to think about her appearance and improve it than ever before.

Our lingerie department has adorable colored hospital gowns for the patient who desires to get away from stark white or heavy muslin. These are dainty, cute, and comfortable. A bed jacket is also desirable . . . so is a pretty robe or duster with bedroom slippers of coordinated color. Sometimes a tiny bedside clock (we have charming ones in brass or colorfully painted wood,) helps pass the time away . . . not that it speeds the hours, but its friendly "tick tock" does ward off a feeling of aloneness.

Note paper and stamps . . . a jewel-like pillbox . . . a book . . . some paperback novels . . . a Bible . . . or magazines—would delight a shut-in. (All this!—just because my cast came off today and set me thinking about the many who are far less fortunate.)

Optimists Club Holds Yule Party

THE Optimists Club of Stroudsburg held its Christmas party recently at the Charcoal Hearth. During the program humorous and practical prizes were awarded to several of the members and their wives.

Mr. and Mrs. John Baylor were given a $1,000,000 life insurance policy from Lloyd Kellogg. It is reported that Kellogg stood guard over the winners with a loaded shot gun for 10 minutes, which was the time length of the policy.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hoffman received the services of Atty. Edward Hoffman to write their will. This service will come to them at no cost.

Dr. Elmo Lilli donated as a prize his services to anyone present to deliver their seventh child and the Rev. Roger Stinson announced he would baptize and marry the child. The winner of this prize was Mrs. Lilli.

Practical items donated as prizes were fruit cake from Jess Pierson, egg nog from Nat and Flo of the Charcoal Hearth, a barrel of cement from Bill Featherman, a fresh cut Christmas tree from Bill Fisher. (It is reported that he cut it on land owned by his father-in-law). Oz Everett threw in as an added attraction a yule log, East Stroudsburg National Bank started a savings account for one of the guests and another guest will receive free service from Klingel Cleaners.

Fresh Greens Add Beauty, Good Smell At Yuletide

ONE of the greatest pleasures of the holiday season is decorating with fresh greens, because the house looks pretty and smells good. Monroe County Agent John Withrow says it's best to treat the greens you use so they last longer. While cut greens are seldom in a situation where they could be a fire hazard, treating is beneficial. Leaf or needle drop or shriveling can be reduced. Even the Berry drop on holly can be reduced. Withrow recommends use of a new plastic spray designed for use on plants. It is called an anti-transpirant material, and it reduces the amount of water a leaf or needle can lose to the air. The leaf does not dry out but remains crisp and fresh. It can be bought as a concentrate and applied in your own sprayer, or in ready-to-spray containers. It is most frequently sold for winter protection of plants or for aid in transplanting, but Withrow says you will be amazed at the extra life it gives to cut greens or trees.

Withrow cautions to make certain you get the spray designed

Conaboy Named Lacka, Judge

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Lawrence Monday named Richard P. Conaboy, former Lackawanna County Democratic chairman, to a vacancy on the county's Common Pleas Court.

The 37-year-old Scranton attorney will succeed Judge William J. Nealon on the county bench. Nealon resigned his county court post to accept a federal judgeship in the U.S. Middle District of Pennsylvania.

Conaboy's appointment to the court post will run until January 1964. The post will be up for election in the 1963 municipal elections. Salary for the county court job is $25,000 a year. A full term on the bench is 10 years.

Pius X Loses, 63-52

BETHLEHEM — The Pius X Royals of Coach John Thomas last night went down to their fourth straight defeat here as the Golden Hawks of Bethlehem Catholic scored a 63-52 win.

A slow start by the Royals actually proved their downfall as they played the Hawks on even terms after the first period. Pius X, unable to score a point during the first six minutes of play, left behind at the very start by 17-9 at the end of the initial quarter and were never able to catch up after that.

The Royals actually outscored the Golden Hawks during the following three sessions by a 45-44 margin, but the home team had built up too big a lead early in the game for the Royals to overcome that deficit.

Steve Donches of Bethlehem Catholic took scoring honors in the game with 29 points, hitting on 14 field goals and one free flip. Al DeRenzi once again was the high scorer for the Royals, hitting seven field goals and adding four from the foul line for 18 points. He has been the high scorer for his team in all four games.

Although Pius X made a good showing at the foul line with 14 of 19 attempts, their shooting from the floor left much to be desired. Bethlehem Catholic, meanwhile, connected on only seven of 17 tries from the foul marker.

Oilers Meet Texans In Title Match

NEW YORK (AP) — The Houston Oilers and Dallas Texans will meet in the third and rubber match of the season at Dallas next Sunday, this time for the American Football League championship.

An all-Texas title playoff was assured at the Polo Grounds Saturday when the charged up Oilers smothered the hapless New York Titans 48-10 to clinch their third straight Eastern Division title. It was the Oilers' 11th victory against three defeats, their best record in three years in the AFL.

Dallas, which clinched the Western crown some time ago, has split its two games with Houston. Oddly enough, the Texans won at Houston 31-7 and the Oilers won at Dallas 14-6.

The Oilers won the title in each of the AFL's first two years, both times under another coach. But Pop Ivy, in his first season as head coach, thinks this is the best of all Houston teams.

"I don't see how it could have been better," said Ivy.

"This team has wonderful balance. There's little to choose between the offensive and defensive teams. It has speed, power and depth and is certainly one of the best all-around squads I've ever handled."

Ivy had plenty to gloat about Saturday as his charges led by George Blanda, Charlie Tolar and Billy Cannon, rolled up 469 yards, 252 in the air and 217 on the ground.

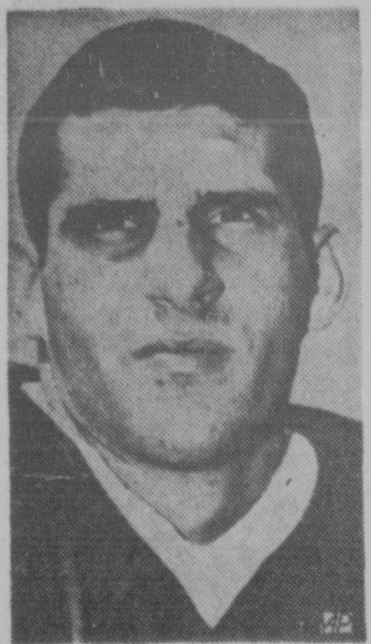

The Oilers' defense was just as impressive. Behind such defensive stalwarts as ends Don Floy and Gary Cutsinger; tackles Ed Hasmann and Ed Culpepper; linebackers Doug Cline, Gene Babb and Mike Dukes; and Tony Banfield, Bobby Jancik, Jim Norton and Freddy Glick in the backfield, the Titans were held to only 199 yards, a mere 77 in the air.

Always known as a superb second half team, the Oilers held the Titans scoreless in the last two periods, in which three New York quarterbacks were able to complete only one pass 12 yards in 13 attempts. They added a fourth interception to go with two made by Glick and one by Cline in the first half.

Blanda, the ageless quarterback, completed 15 of 32 passes for 225 yards and three touchdowns. The 35-year-old passer from Kentucky is completing his 13th professional season. He threw a 41-yard TD pass to Willard Deweave, a 33-yarder to Cannon and a 5-yarder to Dave Smith.

Blanda also booted a 30-yard field goal and kicked five extra points. He finished the regular season with 17 completions in 43 attempts, good for 2,810 yards and 27 touchdowns.

Tolar, Houston's top ball carrier, became the league's second player ever to clear 1,000 yards rushing when he smashed through the Titan line for 10 yards in 29 attempts.

IN CONTROVERSY—Jim Brown, University of South Carolina tackle, was the subject of a controversy when it was learned that he had been signed by the Buffalo Bills of the AFL and the St. Louis Cardinals of the NFL.

Eight Giants Placed On East Squad

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The New York Giants, champions of the Eastern Conference of the National Football League, placed eight players on the Eastern squad, which will meet a select Western Division group in the Pro Bowl football game here Jan. 13.

A squad of 32 men selected by the seven head coaches of the Eastern Conference was announced Monday by Glenn Davis and Dave Brandman, co-directors of the 13th annual charity contest.

One more player, a bonus choice of the head coach, will be announced later this week, as will the personnel of the Western all-star aggregation.

The Cleveland Browns landed six men on the team, the St. Louis Cardinals and Dallas five, Pittsburgh four, Washington three and Philadelphia one.

The Eastern squad:

OFFENSE

Long Streak Ends
LIMON, Colo. (AP)—The finest winning streak in Colorado high school football history ended this season when Limon lost to Fowler 25-21. Limon had won 42 in a row.

Duke Is Second Bearcats Are No. 1 Choice

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
Cincinnati, riding the crest of a 24-game winning streak over a two-season span, was nearly everybody's choice for the third straight week as the nation's top college basketball team in The Associated Press poll.

Figures compiled Monday gave the Bearcats a total of 438 points on 42 first place votes and two seconds among the 44 sports writers and sportscasters who make up the voting panel.

Two For Duke
The two non-Cincinnati ballots gave first place to Duke's Blue Devils who, for the third straight week, placed second to the Bearcats with 349 points, a bare 47 points ahead of third-ranked Ohio State.

Loyola of Chicago, with 218 points and Mississippi State, with 213, placed fourth and fifth, respectively, leaving last week's first five undisturbed.

There was a general shuffle in the lower half of the top ten, however. Ninth-ranked Kentucky and tenth-ranked Seattle joined the elite, as Wisconsin and Oregon State dropped out. Wisconsin plummeted all the way down from seventh place after losing to Indiana State. Oregon State's downfall resulted from a split in a weekend series with California.

Moves Up
Colorado's unbeaten Buffaloes advanced two notches, jumping into sixth place after beating Pepperdine easily for their fourth victory. Illinois (3-0) moved up from 10th to eighth on the strength of an overtime triumph over Iowa State.

West Virginia dropped a notch to seventh place despite a one-sided victory over Richmond for its third success in four games. Kentucky returned to the top ten via a 71-60 decision over Northwestern and unbeaten Seattle moved in for the first time because of a convincing 75-58 triumph at Dayton for victory No. 4.

The Bearcats of Cincinnati, driving for their third straight NCAA title, knocked off once powerful Kansas State and Kansas last week and extended their season's record to 6-0. They face the always tough Dayton team Thursday and a surprisingly strong Davidson quintet Saturday. Davidson has a 4-1 record, losing only to Duke by a narrow margin.

Sixth Triumph
Duke, which barely got by Louisville 76-75 Saturday for its sixth triumph without a setback, takes on Davidson again Tuesday and Miami of Florida Saturday. Ohio State, which ran its winning streak to 5-0 with a triumph over winless TCU, meets Detroit Saturday.

Loyola of Chicago (4-0) ran up more than 100 points in its fourth straight game with its 105-58 rout of South Dakota. The Ramblers play three games this week against Western Michigan, Indiana and Seattle.

Mississippi State beat Memphis State Saturday 77-66 for its fifth without a loss this season and its 19th straight over a two-season span. Sixth-ranked Colorado also has good potential.

"But Tom Haller is my first string catcher — he's just coming into his own. You can't have two young boys like that around. And we still have Ed Bailey, too. As for Coker, we'll have to wait and see."

Sad Departure
"I hated to see Miller leave," Dark said. "He's worked for me every time I've asked him. But that's the only way they'd make the deal."

Dark said that McCormick, who had arm trouble in 1962, should be able to pitch effectively if the arm returns to form. He added that Orsino also has good potential.

"But Tom Haller is my first string catcher — he's just coming into his own. You can't have two young boys like that around. And we still have Ed Bailey, too. As for Coker, we'll have to wait and see."

Departure of the two pitchers left only Willie Mays of the Giants who moved from New York in 1962.

In addition to Hoelt and Fisher, the Giants received reserve catcher Jim Coker in the six-player deal. They can only hope the transaction proves as beneficial as the inter-league transaction after the 1961 season that brought pitchers Billy Pierce and Don Larsen from the Chicago White Sox.

Manager Alvin Dark also emphasized the Giants needed another starter and a southpaw reliever.

Penn State Gridders Greet JFK

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Penn State football team presented President Kennedy an autographed football and a model of a Nittany Lion Monday. The President wished them luck in their Gator Bowl game against Florida Dec. 29 at Jacksonville.

The 48-member squad, coaches and trainers toured the White House and then met Kennedy outside his office. The team stopped here en route to Annapolis, Md., to begin practice for the bowl.

Kennedy recalled that he and Penn State head coach Rip Engle once had the same football coach — the late Dick Harlow.

Engle played at Western Maryland when Harlow coached there. Harlow coached at Harvard where Kennedy played freshman and junior varsity football until a back injury put him out of action.

Kennedy asked Kenneth O'Donnell, his appointment secretary, to join him as he greeted Engle and members of the team. O'Donnell is a former Harvard football star who played against Brown University when Engle was coaching at Brown.

Later State began drills at Annapolis for its game against Florida.

Engle put his squad through a 2½-hour workout.

Engle said he would work the team inside Navy's huge field house if the weather became inclement. But the veteran coach was smiling brightly as his players took the practice field under sunny skies.

He said the weather was right to take off the excess weight the players had acquired during a three-week layoff since they played at Pittsburgh in the final game of the year.

Drills Tuesday will start at 12:30 p.m.

rado faces a busy week meeting Creighton Tuesday, Arizona State Friday and Arizona Saturday.

Set One Of Eight Records

Buffalo's Gilchrist Is AFL's Rushing Champion

DALLAS, (AP) — Cookie Gilchrist, the power man of Buffalo, won the rushing championship of the American Football League and set one of eight offensive records produced by the campaign that ended Sunday.

Gilchrist wound up with 1096 yards on 214 carries and beat out Abner Haynes of Dallas by 47 yards. His total was a league record, bettering the 948 set by Billy Cannon of Houston last year.

Over 1,000
Three players gained more than 1,000 yards, with Haynes making

1,049, and Charles Tolar of Houston set a record for number of attempts with 244. Tolar, Haynes and Gilchrist all bettered the record of 202, Haynes rushing 221 times.

Len Dawson of Dallas was the passing champion with 189 completions of 310 attempts for 2,759 yards and 29 touchdowns.

He won the title under the six-point system that includes completions, yards, touchdowns, completion percentage, per cent intercepted and yards per attempt. He had 43 points, Babe Parilli of Boston was second with 38 points. Dawson set a record in completion percentage of 60.9.

Parilli also set a record for the fewest interceptions. He had eight — one less than his record of nine set last year. Also, his interception percentage of 3.1 was a record.

Gene Mingo of Denver hung up a field goal record of 27, bettering the old record of 18, and Haynes scored 19 touchdowns for another record.

Lee Rily of New York intercepted 11 passes and tied the record of Austin Gonsoulin of Denver in 1960.

Taylor Champ
Lionel Taylor of Denver was the pass-receiving champion for the third straight year. He caught 77 for 908 yards.

Mingo was the scoring champion with 137 points.

Bobby Jancik, Houston rookie, was kickoff return champion with a 30.2 yards average. Dick Christy of New York led in punt returns with a 19.2 average. Rookie Jim Fraser of Denver was the punting champion with a 44.4 yards average.

Miller Aging
Miller will be 35 on Dec. 26. He was the National League ERA champion in 1958 and a 14-game winner in 1961, leading the bullpen staff. As the Giants won the 1962 flag, Miller was only 5-8 with a 4.12 ERA.

McCormick is only 24 but a six-year veteran with the Giants. He signed a bonus contract and joined the club on finishing high school in Alhambra, Calif. He won 15 games in 1960 and 13 in 1961 but was only 5-5 in 1962. He and Miller each have 500 career records with Mike at 59-59 and Stu at 67-67.

Crowe's Defeats Sullivan Heating
CROWE's continue on their winning ways as they garnered four points from Sullivan Heating of Easton Saturday night in the Delaware Valley League on the Easton alleys.

After winning the first game by a few pins, despite the blind score, Crowe's won the second by 50 pins and came on real strong in the last game with 1023.

Russ Bergman has made his move in the last two weeks for the high average crown as he scored a 219-223-621 series. For Sullivan's Doug Hawk was high with 213-588.

Crowe's will be home next week against the defending champion Fleas Club of Easton.

Four Matches
FOUR matches in the Pocono Major Bowling League concludes action tonight for the first half of the season. The second half starts Jan. 8. Tonight's matches at Colonial Lanes start at 6:45 p.m.

Happy Hour Tavern vs. Lawson's Automotive on alleys 9 and 10; Star Furniture vs. Pocono Pump Co. on alleys 11 and 12; Beaver House vs. Fabel's Gull on alleys 13 and 14; and Stroudsburg Furnace vs. Fabel's Dairys on alleys 15 and 16.

Basketball Action Resumes Tonight

FIVE area scholastic basketball teams return to action tonight with most of the attention centered on the play of two unbeaten teams in the Pocono-Slate Belt region — Stroud Union and Pocono Mountain.

Stroud Union's Mountaineers (2-0) travel to Bangor (3-1) which last week lost its first game of the season at Fountain Hill after registering three straight victories in the Slaters' most successful cage start in more than a decade.

Pocono Mountain's Cardinals, meanwhile, current owners of an unbeaten 3-0 slate, face their toughest test of the campaign tonight when they entertain a strong Scranton Prep squad.

Pocono-Major League

DON Metzger blasted out a 220-607 series to pace Lawson's Automotive to a 4 point sweep over Star Furniture. Dick Kymmer opened with a 224 single but fell off to only a 523 match but still enough to top the losers.

Beaver House rolled past Fabel's Dairy 3 to 1. Stan Konawalik with a 558 and Bill Fry's 535 were the top scorers.

Al Schoch tabbed a 218-555 series to lead Happy Hour Tavern over Pocono Pump Co., 3-1. Pete Tyremans' 502 was the best for the Pump Co.

Stroudsburg Furnace remained in first place as they scored a 3 to 1 victory over Fabel's Golf. Walt Davis posted a 536 for the Furnace Co. and Bob Lesosnes' 505 was the best the Gulf team could offer.

Colonial Pocono Mts. League

HAROLD Storm just missed rolling a perfect game as a wobbly ten-pin failed to fall over in the ninth frame. He had 8 in a row, a spare, and then struck out for a 279 single game. This game and his 673 series and his team's 1074 single and 2924 triple all were new high marks for the season in the league. Buck Pipher also hit a 243-629 trio to add the cause. However, with all this record scoring, E. D. Huffmans only won two points as their opponent, Frank Chevrolet, also rolled a 1,000 game. John Gerenser was their top scorer with a 249-604.

Sinclair Oil turned back Colonial Lanes 3 to 1. Dick Fabel led their attack with a 200-565. Harold Funk with a 212-538 topped the losers.

Franks Barber Shop blanked Brite Cleaners 4 to 0. Doc Fegley tabbed a 223-606 to take scoring honors for Franks. Brites failed to post a 500 match.

League leading, Monroe Music, and Marshall's Creek Kennels split their contest 2-2. Randy Morris rolled a 588 series over the Square team and Charles Kocan a 225-500 for the Kennels.

Orchard Truiler Park shutout Bailey's Mobil 4 to 0. Charles Wright posted a 245-634 to lead the way. A 529 by Corley Keiper was the best for Baileys.

East Stroudsburg Church League

IN A high-scoring match, the Non-Denominational five regained fourth place with a three-ply win over Salvation Army behind Dick Singer's steady 560. Slump-ridden Bob Cramer plastered a 222-610 to top the losers.

The Lutherans bombed front-running Methodists for four to vault into first with a week to go, led by Howard Smith's 533, as Bill Fry tossed a 517 in opposition.

The Presbyterians ended their four-week slide from the top with a sweep over St. Matthew's as Bill Hay's 207-562 was better backed than Pete Murphy's 542.

Colonial 4-Man League

CARL Kohl with a 234-667 was top man for the league. Charcoal Hearth however, defeated McCormick Builders 3 to 1. Walt Arnold had a 642 for Charcoal.

Pat Neffue with a 598 for Leggieri's and Russ Staples with 526. In spite of a 234 and 611 by Walt Keiper for Swisher's Rheingold, they lost 3-1 to Schaefer Beer.

Dick Greiner led Schaefer Beer with 204 and 578. Schaefer Beer is now leading the league by 1 point with one match to go in this first half.

Frank's Barber Shop won the first game and total wood to split 2-2 with Babe's Service Station. Hank Baustien led the Barber's with 206 and 582 and Babe Miller was high for Babe's with 213 and 572.

Tuesday Legion League

BUCK Jones and John Manson have qualified for Century emblems, Jones, with a 161 average, rolled a 278 game, and Manson, with a 134 average, rolled a 267 game.

Randall Ott's 211-587 led United Army & Navy to a 4-0 win over Tucker's Chevrolet. Len Rush led Tucker's with a 179-490.

Bob DeHaven's 216-557 was high for Stroudsburg Laundry as they defeated Happy Hour, 3-1. Zeke Bettz' 171-469 was high for the tavern.

Ernie Carretta's 184-533 took honors for Sunlight Lanes as they defeated Sinclair by a 3-1 count. John Manson pounded out a 267-571 match, his best of the season, for Sinclair.

PSEA Recommends Hike In State Aid To Schools

By FRED WALTERS
HARRISBURG (AP)—The legislative committee of the Pennsylvania State Education Association has recommended an increase in state aid to public schools that may cost in excess of $200 million.

It proposes that the present state subsidy base be raised to the level of average costs per teaching unit (roughly, a classroom) or actual costs, whichever is lower.

There is general agreement the average cost statewide is around $10,000 or more. The state's subsidy now is based on $5,800 per teaching unit.

The Governor's Committee of 100 for Better Education did a statistical study on what an increase in the base would cost.

Assuming that the local effort would increase in proportion to an increase in state aid, the committee study came up with an estimate it would cost $208.4 million to raise the subsidy base to $10,000.

The PSEA itself, however, estimated the cost at about $100 million.

It should be noted that the budget presented to the budget office last week by the Department of Public Instruction proposed an increase in the teaching unit subsidy of $16 million. That would support only the increased costs of increased enrollments, without raising the $5,800 base.

This budget, however, is subject to amendment by the incoming Scranton administration and by the legislature.

Whether the PSEA group actually will support a $200 million increase is another question.

The PSEA, the Pennsylvania State School Directors Association and the Pennsylvania Parents-Teachers Association have been trying to develop a common legislative program.

Not Lost
The tax implications of a $200 million school subsidy increase are not lost on the practical lobbyists of these groups.

But after five years of rebuffs in their efforts to raise the state subsidy, the organizations are not apt to be content with a token offering in 1963.

Another major proposal of the PSEA legislative committee is for teacher salary increases ranging from $300 to $900 a year, an item that would push the teaching unit costs even higher.

Wayne To Get Aid For Aged Promotion

HARRISBURG (AP)—Fourteen counties will receive state grants totaling $92,008 for the promotion of new community services for the aged, the Public Welfare Department announced yesterday.

The grants will go to: Allegheny, $21,250; Beaver, $5,500; Blair, $4,500; Bucks, $4,209; Centre, $2,437; Dauphin, $4,375; Lackawanna, $5,814; Lancaster, $6,375; Lehigh, $1,500; Luzerne, $19,000; Northampton, $6,000; Potter, $1,773; Washington, $3,000; and Wayne, $5,275.

The money is to be used for homemaker programs, day care programs, counseling and referral agencies, foster care plans and welfare worker programs.

Dickinson Board Head Retires

CARLISLE, Pa. (AP) — Boyd Lee Spahr, 82-year-old Philadelphia, retired yesterday as president of the Dickinson College Board of Trustees after 31 years in that office.

The board then elected Sidney D. Kline, a Reading banker, to succeed him.

Spahr will continue as a trustee of the college. He has been on the board since 1908.

Meanwhile, it was announced at the board meeting that Prof. Benjamin D. James has been appointed dean of students, effective Jan. 1. James has been on the Dickinson faculty since 1941.

Three retirements also were announced, effective next June: Dr. Gilbert Malcolm, provost of the college and a former Dickinson president; Dr. William Drum Gould, chairman of the Department of philosophy and religion; and Dr. Charles D. Kepner, head of the Sociology Department.

Encouraging Signs In Coal Industry

WASHINGTON (AP) — A coal industry spokesman said yesterday there are encouraging signs that coal exports may increase under the new U.S. trade expansion policy.

Joseph E. Moody, president of the National Coal Policy Conference, Inc., said government agencies "are showing an increasing interest in using the added authority of the trade expansion act to bring about the removal of existing trade barriers and increase exports of coal."

Moody cited a letter he received from Henry Brodie, director of the Office of International Trade in the State Department, in which Brodie wrote "we strongly feel that a reasonable access to the British market for American coal... is fully justified and we shall continue to press for it."

Great Britain maintains a complete embargo on imports of U.S. coal but, Moody said, the British steel industry has been pressing for importation of U.S. coking coal because it is less expensive than British-produced coal of that type.

Moody reported the Interior and Treasury Departments also have made known to him their interest in sympathy for efforts to expand coal exports.

12 Children Killed Playing With Grenade

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Twelve children were killed and six seriously hurt Friday while playing with a hand grenade they found on a road, the government reported Monday.

The accident occurred in a rural district near the northern end of the republic several hundred yards from a primary school. An investigation was under way to determine how the grenade had been left in the road.

32 Named For Rhodes Scholarships

SWARTHMORE, Pa. (AP) — Thirty-two men from 23 states were named yesterday winners of Rhodes scholarships for study at Oxford University, England.

The winners included two Negroes. One other previous Negro had been named in the United States in the history of the scholarship which dates back to 1904.

The will of British statesman Cecil Rhodes, which established the scholarships in 1899, said, "No student shall be qualified or disqualified for election to a scholarship on account of his race or religious opinion."

The appointments were announced by Courtney Smith, President of Swarthmore College and American secretary of the Rhodes scholarships.

The Negroes named were John E. Wideman of Pittsburgh, captain of the University of Pennsylvania basketball team and an English literature major, and Joseph Stanley Sanders of Los Angeles, a Little All-America football end and student body president at Whittier (Calif.) College.

"Very Excited"
The other Negro Rhodes scholar from the United States was Alain Locke from Harvard University in 1907.

"I'm very excited," said Wideman, "very happy. I wanted very much to get it. I was quite shocked. I didn't really expect it but at the same time I was hoping for it."

Wideman said he

The Daily Investor

No, He Didn't Know

By William A. Doyle

Q. I own 75 shares of a certain stock whose market price had been moving up very nicely. Suddenly it started to fall and is still dropping. Then I read that the vice-president of the company had sold 4,000 shares of the stock. Did he know the price of the stock had reached its peak and would decline? How long after an executive of a company sells his stock is that sale made public?

A. No, he didn't "know" the stock's price had reached its peak price. Nobody knows that, for sure, no matter what his position may be. Stock prices are determined by supply and demand — the prices buyers are willing to pay and sellers are willing to accept. He might have sold the stock months before you read about the sale. In many cases such sales are never announced to the public.

However, if the stock is listed on a stock exchange or is the stock of a public utility holding company or a registered closed-end investment company, the purchase or sale by officers, directors, major stockholders and certain other "insiders" must be reported to the stock exchange and/or the Securities & Exchange Commission.

The stock exchanges and the SEC make public tabulations of those so-called "insider transactions" periodically. Naturally, the SEC prints the longest list. Once a month, it puts out a booklet called "Official Summary of Security Transactions and Holdings."

If you're really interested in following these things, you can obtain a copy from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C. — at 15 cents a month or $1.50 a year.

A quick check through a recent copy of that booklet shows that most of the transactions reported in it took place in the previous month. Others took place many months earlier.

Q. Recent reports published by a number of mutual funds show that total assets of each fund are higher than a year ago. But in every case the asset value per share is lower. Why? If total assets of a fund are up, shouldn't the value of each share be higher?

And I read a report that the same situation prevailed with an investment trust for employee benefit plans, handled by a bank. In that case total assets were up but the value of "individual units" was down.

A. You missed the point that most mutual funds continuously sell new shares to the public. So, if the number of shares increase at a faster pace than the total assets, the value of each share naturally declines.

Mutual funds normally invest a great deal of the money they receive from the sale of shares in stocks. When stock prices decline, the total assets of the fund declines, unless enough new shares of the fund are sold to offset the total decline.

Because the market prices of most stocks are now well below where they were a year ago, the per share values of most mutual funds are below a year ago.

Roughly the same thing applies to that bank-administered investment trust for pension plans — even though it is set up in a more complicated manner. For simplicity sake, you can expect the rise or fall of securities prices to affect the value of the trust's individual units.
